Introduction

It is believed by traditional authorities that Biochemic Tissue Salts can be recommended through astrological correspondence; consequently, this material briefly overviews such recommendations.

--()--

Health Astrology Technical Areas

Health Astrology is divided into four technical areas:

- 1) Anatomy (the structures) - This is represented by the Signs/Houses, and describes the physical elements that constitute the organism.
- 2) Physiology (the operations) - This is represented by the Planets, and describes the functioning of the elements within the organism.
- 3) Pathology (the afflictions) - This is represented by the positioning and aspects of the planets relative to each other and to the signs/houses, and from this analysis dis-ease (out-of-synchronisation) can be identified and evaluated.
- 4) Remedies (the re-synchronising) - This is represented by the Tissue Salt(s) (recommended) or equivalent remedy. Thus, the remedies are used to aid the resynchronising of the organism, and to assist with the achieving of homeostasis within the flow of space-time and unfolding universal energy.

The Charts

To evaluate an individual's health relative to anatomy (the structures), physiology (the operations), pathology (the afflictions), and remedies (the re-synchronising), the following Astrological charts are compiled:

- Decumbiture Chart - Indicates the energies causing or surrounding a particular Pathology. However, because of the 'subjectivity' of the compilation of the Decumbiture chart, it must be created and interpreted extremely carefully.
- Natal Chart - Indicates the native's birth health (including acquired health) disposition.
- Progressed Chart - Indicates the native's health disposition related to a specific period of time. This chart is usually cast for a particular year/period of the native's life.
- Transit Chart - Indicates the native's specific health issues related to the now. This chart is cast when the native is feeling unwell, or when the native requires a health related prediction.

Creating a General Interpretation

Once the appropriate chart has been erected, gather the relevant information as follows:

- 1) Turn to the relevant house in the horoscope and examine the planets (and aspects) it contains.
- 2) Examine the sign on its cusp.
- 3) Examine the planet (its position) ruling the cusp sign.
- 4) Examine the general planetary ruler.

Example: For Health, turn first to the sixth house (which rules health), the planets it contains and the planet which rules its cusp, and then to Mercury, the general ruler of health.

Example: For Death, examine Mars, the eighth house and general factors such as the activity of the malefics (Mars, Saturn, and to a lesser degree Uranus, Pluto).

Further, the Sixth and Eighth Houses have much to do with Health and the signs on these cusps usually indicate vulnerable areas of the body.

A General interpretation can be made from the Sun, Asc, Chart Ruler (Asc Ruler), Moo, 6th House, 12th House, and 8th House as follows:

- Sun-Sign - Indicates General Weakness
- Asc - Indicates the Physical Type
- Chart Ruler (Asc Ruler) - Adds further depth to the Physical Type
- Moo-Sign - Indicates the Emotional Conditions, and rules Physiological Functions
- 6th House - Planets Within, Indicate Health
- 6th House Ruler - Adds further depth to the indications of health
- 12th House - Planets within, Indicate Psychological Health

- 12th House Ruler - Adds further depth to the Psychological Health

Also

- 8th House - Planets Within, Indicate possible Death issues
- 8th House Ruler - Adds further depth to the Death issues

Recommending Tissue Salts

When recommending Tissue Salts, the following should be noted:

- 1) Always recommend the Salt corresponding to the Sun position
- 2) Always recommend the salt corresponding to the position opposite the Sun
- 3) Always consider recommending Ferr Phos. Further, Kali Phos and Ferr Phos work hand in hand, and when one is indicated, consider also recommending the other

4) Recommend other salts as indicated by the planetary positions, and aspects, etc.

Tissue Salts - Detailed (After Sawtell)

Aries (1st) (Ma)

Potassium Phosphate

(Kali Phos)

Body area: Cerebrum, the top of the head, which houses the upper brain, the organ of thought), organs of sight, hearing, taste, and smell.

Function: Kali Phos attracts and contacts the unlimited electrical power ever present in the universe, and which is the cause of all growth and new beginnings.

Uses: Kali Phos creates the grey matter (nerve fluid) of the brain by uniting albumen (water soluble proteins found in blood etc.) and oxygen (combine with Calc Fluor). Kali Phos, in addition to any other indicated salts, is required in practically all cases of sickness.

All mental disorders. Nerve troubles, depression, insomnia, hysteria, sensitiveness, headaches (with Ferrum Phos if due to anaemia). Assists all mental work, and study.

All cases of paralysis (assists in the rebuilding of the brain cells that serve the affected area). Builds brain cells, and promotes clear and definite thoughts.

Destruction of cancer cells. Healing and antiseptic (especially Kali Phos (vital fire to purify the unhealthy condition) + Kali Mur (to build new cells) + Kali Sulph (to cleanse through the pores of the skin, and to bathe the cells in an oily, salty, antiseptic fluid) + Ferrum Phos (to attract oxygen)). This combination has been effective in treating cancer. It has been speculated that a shortage of Potassium is contributory to cancer. Natural potassium is found in crude black molasses.

Skin troubles (especially where there is irritation). Use in conjunction with Ferrum Phos if there is burning.

Other areas covered by Kali Phos include the sensory organs of sight (eyes), hearing (ears), taste (tongue), and smell (nose). Assists in menstruation, pregnancy, respiratory troubles (bronchial asthma, whooping cough, croup, hoarseness or voice loss).

Calms the overworked businessman, the weary wife, etc.

Note: Kali Phos (Ari) works very well in combination with Ferrum Phos (Pis) - the complete cycle (beginning and ending).

--(--)

Taurus (2nd) (Ve)

Sodium Sulphate

Natrum Sulphuretum

(Nat Sulph)

Body area: Cerebellum (lower brain), neck, ears, lower jaw, and throat.

Function: Nat Sulph eliminates excess water from the body. One molecule of Nat Sulph eliminates from the system two molecules of water. Further, Nat Sulph regulates the quality in all fluids in the body.

Uses: Bilioussness (disorder of the bile - a bitter greenish-brown alkaline fluid which helps digestion, and is secreted by the liver, and is stored in the gall bladder) and malaria are related to a deficiency of Nat Sulph. Use in the draining of the lymph (this may require a large dose).

Can aid in bringing moderation to eating and drinking habits. Also assists in the draining of the toxic liquid of the obese and overweight.

Affects the digestion organs, the bile of the liver, the pancreatic juices, and kidney secretions. Bile disorders range from sluggish liver and tiredness in the early morning, to gall stones, jaundice, stoppage of the bile duct, and constipation.

Diabetes needs Nat Sulph because it stimulates the secretions of the pancreas, liver, and kidneys.

Note: When the digestive organs are not operating harmoniously, then sore throats and colds are frequent.

--()--

Gemini (3rd) (Me)

Potassium Chloride

Kali Muriaticum

(Kali Mur)

Body area: Bronchial tubes, lungs, shoulders, arms, hands, and fingers.

Function: Kali Mur forms fibrin (every tissue and organ, except bone, contains fibrin). Man's body is constructed of an infinitely fine network of these tiny fibres, all branching off from one another. This also includes the skin, glands, and nerves. Kali Mur must be present in sufficient quantities to enable the elements contained in food to be built into fibrin. When ill, valuable elements run off in the form of mucus, and the body is depleted.

Uses: For catarrh, and mucus exuding illnesses (with these illnesses, eliminate mucus-producing foods, e.g.: milk, butter, cheese, yogurt. Sweet foods, eg: cakes, honey, sugar. Stimulants, eg: coffee, tea, curry, etc.).

The common cold (combine with Ferrum Phos, and take frequently - every 1/2 hour).

For congestion of the bronchial tubes, swollen glands, mumps, enlarged rheumatic (inflammation and pain in the joints, muscles, or fibrous tissue, especially rheumatoid arthritis (inflammation of a joint)) joints, and swollen tonsils. Sore throat, swollen throat, mucus membranes, and glands. Coughs. Note: Following colds and influenza, take Ferrum Phos and Calc Phos as a tonic.

All children's diseases where there are exudations through the skin (measles, chicken-pox, and scarlet fever, etc. These are all disturbances of the fibrin). In all children's diseases where scaling takes place, or there is a skin rash, Kali Mur is needed (given regularly pitting after chicken-pox is prevented). Kali Mur lessens scars after burns, and should be combined with Silica.

All cases of a very white tongue, sluggish liver, constipation, and all congestion and swellings need Kali Mur (if there is inflammation combine with Ferrum Phos). Inflammation arises from lack of oxygen due to iron deficiency.

Cancer (4th) (Mo)

Calcium Fluoride

Calcareum Fluoricum

(Calc Fluor)

Body Area: Breasts, stomach, and spleen. Concerned with organs of secretion (mother's milk - breast; chyle - digested food elements of the stomach; white corpuscles of the blood - spleen). Reproduction (not procreation). Teeth, fingernails, bones, crystalline lens of the eye. The elastic fibre of all muscular tissue.

Function: Calc Flour is the spinning salt. It governs expansion and contraction, elasticity and tenacity. Growth and fructification. Governs the ceaseless formation of new corpuscles within the spleen. Spins the filaments upon which the tissues of the body are built.

Uses: Cracked skin, and fissures and splits between the toes, fingers, at the anus, behind the ears, or in the corners of the mouth.

Tightens up tissues and organs. Helps prolapsed organs, varicose veins, hardening of the arteries or testicles, valvular heart troubles, haemorrhoids, receding gums, and loose teeth (is an important constituent of the enamel of the teeth). Helps with fingernails, bones, the crystalline lens of the eye, and in the elastic fibre of all muscular tissue.

Cataracts, blurred vision, hard growths, and osseous lumps indicate a lack of Calc Fluor).

Arachnoid (the fine membrane covering the brain) has Calc Fluor as a constituent. Calc Fluor helps the memory process. A lack of Calc Fluor can result in a fear or paranoia of poverty.

Helps in cases of extreme tiredness, and general weariness in which no amount of rest seems to help. Useful in firming up tissues and organs to their normal tension.

Useful for expectant mothers (enables tissues to be supple and thus promotes an easy delivery, and prevents sagging of the abdomen following the confinement).

Note: Whenever a case calls for Calc Fluor, it is usual to combine it with Silica.

--()--

Leo (5th) (Su)

Magnesium Phosphate

Magnesium Phosphoricum

(Mag Phos)

Body area: Heart. Motor nerves (Mag Phos combines with certain fibres to make white or motor nerves). Mag Phos helps one to "let go" and relax.

Function: Mag Phos acts upon the motor nerves, and relates to motion.

Uses: Mag Phos is the great anti-pain salt. Relieves cramps and spasms, or where application of heat brings relief. Headaches, neuralgias, earache, spasmodic twitching of the eyes or limbs. Menstrual (PMT/PMS) tension or colic. Convulsions, and all heart troubles.

To relieve pain or heart attacks, dissolve large doses of Mag Phos in hot water, and sip frequently. Hot applications should also be given to assist relaxation.

Mag Phos can be used in conjunction with Ferrum Phos. Also water, sleep, and deep breathing can be added.

Mag Phos (during morning, in the afternoon, and at retiring for the night) + Kali Phos (before meals) + Ferrum Phos (after meals) taken in rotation will cover practically all cases of tiredness and exhaustion from overwork, anaemia, neuralgia, cramp, spasms, and insomnia.

Virgo (6th) (Me)

Potassium Sulphate

Kali Sulphuricum

(Kali Sulph)

Body area: Solar plexus, and bowels. The portal vein (this gathers up digested food from intestines and conveys it to the liver). The Solar Plexus is sometimes referred to as the 'Lower Brain'.

Function: Kali Sulph manufactures and distributes oil. The oil which is manufactured provides a fuel, a solvent, a lubricant, and a purifier for the human machine.

Uses: A deficiency of Kali Sulph causes oil in the skin and tissues to thicken and clog, thus turning heat and secretions back upon the inner organs (lungs, pleura, membranes or the nasal passages) and thus catarrh is formed.

Deficiency causes dandruff, falling hair, skin eruptions exuding a yellowish oily matter, or inactive dry scaling skin, gastro-duodenal catarrh, ringworm, anaemia, and bronchitis. Kali Sulph is an oxygen carrier to the epidermic and epithelial cells of the skin and membranes (Kali Sulph can be used in conjunction with Ferrum Phos).

Kali Sulph is essential in the older person as it augments oil in the skin, hair, intestinal tract, and bones, etc.

Persons deficient in Kali Sulph will feel suffocated in a warm room, and will feel compelled to get out into the cool air. Symptoms are usually worse in the afternoon.

Use in all children's diseases where there has been a rash or scaling (it helps to form new skin and can be used in conjunction with Kali Mur).

Poor circulation, bowel troubles, and indigestion. Congested portal vein (liver becomes sluggish, and biliousness (disorder of the bile) or constipation follows).

Individuals with Sun, Moon, or difficult planets in Virgo often suffer ailments caused by a congested liver. Excessive dryness or scaliness of the skin.

Note: Lemon juice in water is an excellent liver decongestant.

--()--

Libra (7th) (Ve)

Sodium Phosphate

Natrum Phosphate

(Nat Phos)

Body areas: Kidneys, loins (part of body between the false ribs, and the hip bones), and the lumber region.

Function: Nat Phos preserves the balance between acids and the normal fluids of the body. The alkalinity of the blood must be kept at a certain level to ensure health, thus acid in excess of the body's requirements has to be eliminated by the kidneys. Conditions of excess acid are often related to a deficiency of Nat Phos. Nat Phos has the power to work with acid in the body such as lactic acid and uric acid.

Uses: Rheumatic (inflammation and pain in the joints, muscles, or fibrous tissue, especially rheumatoid arthritis (inflammation of a joint)) disorders, gout worms, flatulence, diabetes, kidney and bladder weaknesses. Eczema, jaundice, and gall stones. Fermentation of gastric juices, retarded digestion, digestive tract lining. Gastric ulceration (use with Calc Sulph which heals the ulcers). Dyspepsia, sour taste in mouth, bilious disorders (disorder of the bile), diarrhoea.

Yellow coating on the tongue, and all exudations from sores on the skin or from any mucous membrane that are of a yellow, honey colour. The red nosed dyspeptic, blotchy skin, or flushed face after eating, are indications for Nat Phos. Stomach ulcers (use with Calc Sulph which heals the ulcers). Gastric acid reduction. Inflamed or ulcerated throat and gums.

Gall stones (gall stones cannot form if sufficient Nat Phos is present. Can also dissolve the gall stones, but takes time, +/- six months). All Jaundice conditions.

Scorpio (8th) (PI/Ma)

Calcium Sulphate

(Calc Sulph)

Body areas: Reproductive organs, procreative glands, bladder, the pelvis of the kidneys, prostate, groins, and rectum.

Function: Nature's great cleansing, and healing agent. Assists in blood purification. Calc Sulph is a constituent of connective tissues, and is necessary to promote healing of all kinds. Calc Sulph is present in the bile, and helps to destroy worn-out red blood-corpuscles by extracting the water from them so that they may be used again by the body.

Calc Sulph coats all vascular surfaces of the body, and thus protect them from certain fluids (an example is the lining of the stomach is protected from the stomach acids).

Other areas that need the protection of Calc Sulph include the eyeballs, nasal passages, mouth, throat, oesophagus, bladder, colon, etc (all surfaces of the body which contact moisture).

Uses: Diseases of the throat, nasal bones, heart, or back.

Problems of faulty metabolism which results in boils, carbuncles, gumboils, skin eruptions, disorders of the pancreas and kidneys, chronic diarrhoea, catarrhs, constant discharge of pus from any part, and slow healing due to an unhealthy condition of connective tissue.

A deficiency of Calc Sulph can relate to barrenness in females, and impotency in males. The germ cells turn to pus in the ovaries, and ovarian tubes in the female, and in the prostate of the male.

Fistulas (a tear or opening in the wall of the bowel to rid the system of pus) are also related to a deficiency of Calc Sulph. If Calc Sulph is deficient, fistulas will reoccur, even after surgery to repair the damage.

Sagittarius (9th) (Ju)

Silicon Oxide

(Silica)

Body areas: Hips, thighs, blood vessels. Higher mind.

Function: The lancet of biochemistry, Nature's surgeon. Wherever there is heteroplasm (pus), etc to be discharged, Silica is indicated. Relative to pus etc, Silica should be used with Calc Flour + Calc Sulph + Calc Phos, and must be taken intensively for many months.

Silica is quartz or flint, and no matter how finely it is powdered its molecules are still pointed and triangular.

Uses: Silica is used wherever there is pus to be discharged (boils, abscesses, carbuncles, etc).

Sweat glands, and fetid perspiration of the feet. Copious night sweats, and insufficient perspiration. Red eyelids, caries of the bones, tonsillitis, ulceration of the throat, styes on the eyelids, cataract, and dullness of hearing with catarrh of the Eustachian tubes. Gives a glossy finish to hair and nails.

A lack of Silica relates to an inability to connect one's thoughts, bad memory, and nervous disorders. Silica can be used in combination with Calc Flour.

To ward off a threatening cold, Silica should be combined with Kali Sulph + Kali Mur + Ferrum Phos. Large doses in hot water, taken in conjunction with a hot bath, will give the pores of the skin a good cleansing. Only take fruit juices for a while, and monitor that the bowels are functioning well. Do this, and the cold will soon disappear.

Silica strengthens nerves, and keeps them at the correct 'tension'. Silica should be used for all nervous disorders. Further, Silica promotes a sound, and refreshing sleep.

Capricorn (10th) (Sa)

Calcium Phosphate

(Calc Phos)

Body areas: Bones, and skeleton.

Function: Calc Phos is the principle salt used in the bony framework of the body. The body requires more Calc Phos than any other tissue salt, because of the amount required for the bones. Further, Calc Phos forms the skeletal part of every cell in the body.

Uses: Calcium that can be assimilated by the physical system. Calc Phos is an important constituent of the digestive fluids, and if, depleted food cannot be properly digested and assimilated. Result - cell starvation and anaemia.

A deficiency in Calc Phos relates to excess mucus or colds, enlarged tonsils, swollen glands, and wasting diseases.

Use for rickets, bone problems, curvature, anaemia, malnutrition of all kinds, teething trouble, tooth decay, chilblains, skin diseases.

Calc Phos is necessary for growing children, during pregnancy, older people, and convalescents. Always required after bone fractures or surgery.

Bright's Disease (an overflow of albumin via the kidneys).

A Calc Phos deficiency in the digestive juices causes food to ferment in the stomach and intestines. The acids and toxins thrown off accumulate around the joints causing swelling and pain known as rheumatism (inflammation and pain in the joints, muscles, or fibrous tissue, especially rheumatoid arthritis (inflammation of a joint)).

Aquarius (11th) (Ur/Sa)

Sodium Chloride

Natrum Muriaticum

(Nat Mur)

Body areas: Knees, ankles, and circulatory system.

Function: Nat Mur is found in every tissue and fluid in the body. The cells of the body are fed by fluids flowing in and out of the tissues (a process called endosmosis). Fluids carrying the necessary elements, flow into the cells, deposit the food, then flow out carrying the waste products. Nat Mur regulates the flow of fluids through the tissues, and without it the cells would be starved, as they could not take up nutriment because fluids could not pass in and out of them. In its crude form, Nat Mur is common salt (however, over consumption of common salt causes clogging of the tissues).

Uses: Nat Mur is needed in all cases where there is a disturbance in the distribution of water, where the surface is either too dry or too moist, as in watery running colds, dropsy, water brash, dryness of mouth, constipation, shingles, insect stings, eczema, sunstroke, indigestion, anaemia, malaria, smarting secretion from the eyes, hay fever, cracking joints, restlessness, and irritability.

A lack of Nat Mur may cause sleeplessness when too little or too much fluid is present.

Nat Mur has power to attract water as well as to utilize it, and should be given in all cases of watery swellings or blisters.

One condition calling for Nat Mur is itching (use Nat Mur in conjunction with Calc Sulph to relieve burning. Also add Ferrum Phos if there is redness and inflammation. If the tissues and fibres damaged, also add Kali Mur. Construct a paste/cream, and spread over the afflicted area).

Nat Mur is also suitable for eczema.

Pisces (12th) (Ne/Ju)

Iron Phosphate

Ferrum Phosphate

(Ferr Phos)

Body areas: Feet, and the lymphatic system.

Function: To oxygenate the blood, and to soothe inflammation. Ferr Phos has the ability to carry oxygen to all parts of the organism.

Uses: Ferr Phos is indicated in all cases of inflammation or congestion, and brings things back into fluid balance. Use in injuries, haemorrhages, dull throbbing headaches, insomnia, sore throat, lumbago, heart palpitation, emotional disturbances, colds, chills (especially when feverish).

Rheumatism (inflammation and pain in the joints, muscles, or fibrous tissue, especially rheumatoid arthritis (inflammation of a joint)), fractures, cuts, and sprains. Bruises, anaemia, depression, listlessness, and discouragement (low self-image).

It has been suggested that Ferr Phos is an antibiotic agent (further research is needed before a definitive opinion can be considered).

Ferr Phos can be used in conjunction with Kali Mur (especially for emotional problems).
